Personal Essentials Good Neighbors PEP

What are personal essentials?

Personal essentials are the toiletry and household items pertinent to everyday life. These items include everything from diapers to all-purpose cleaner.

Why is there a special pantry for these items?

Unfortunately, food stamps do not cover non-food items, a category that includes all personal essential items. Local food pantries do not regularly stock these items either. Just imagine trying to get your baby ready for daycare without diapers or prepare for a big interview without deodorant. Personal essentials are an important part of everyday life!

Who can use the pantry?

PEP is available to ALL individuals and families in need. The services are free; you don't have to be registered with any agency; there's no huge pile of paperwork to be filled out. If you are at or below the federally-approved income limits, you're eligible for help from the Pantry. You're welcome whether you're a single adult or a household of adults or a household with kids.

What items are available?

Products offered range from toothbrushes to toilet paper as well as many cleaning supplies. Because our inventory is computer-managed, you may visit any of the pantries whenever you need, as often as you need, as many times as you need. (This doesn't mean that you can get every product you want every time you come; but you should be able to get every product as soon as you are eligible. Products are portioned based on family size and expected normal product use.) Quantities at the pantry are limited and given out on a first come basis.

How do I find out more about the pantry?
